LEGIONES ASTARTES • THOUSAND SONS • TRAITOR

The Corvidae see the shape of a battle before the first shot is fired, and the Ammitara are how that foresight gets turned into a knife already behind enemy lines.

Designer's Note. Built from the real HH3e digitized "Ammitara Occult Intercession Cabal" profile (`Thousand Sons.json`, modelled as "Intercessor") — a Corvidae-Arcana infiltration squad, using the same foresight-and-prophecy specialization as Ahriman's own Arch-Magister ability. Real: 37pts unit fee (HH3e economy), real Infiltrate(9) and Move Through Cover, translated to the core [INFILTRATORS] ability (Move Through Cover has no distinct 11e equivalent since terrain movement penalties already work differently in this edition, and was folded into the same core ability rather than invented separately). Priced at 90/175pts for 5/10. Foreseen Ambush is an original ability themed on the unit's real Corvidae Arcana tag, reusing the same "worse Hit roll beyond 12"" rendering already established for Magnus's Shrouded and Dark Angels' Watchers in the Dark — appropriate here since Corvidae's whole identity across this roster is about seeing an attack coming before it lands. The real Support Unit(2) rule (an army-list Force Organisation mechanic) was not built, consistent with how this project handles army-building-layer real rules throughout. 11e codex update (18 Oct 2026): power armour T5 like the codex Intercessors and the Chaos Legionaries; Astartes bolt weapons S5 AP-1 (pistols [CLOSE-QUARTERS]) and codex-named weapons on the codex profile; points scaled with Intercessor Squad 80→85.
