VOICE OF THE WARMASTER'S NEW FAITH

LEGIONES ASTARTES • SONS OF HORUS • TRAITOR

He was never a chaplain in the old sense — no oaths to the Emperor's cold Imperial Truth, only a quiet, patient certainty that the Warmaster's new gods are listening, and that they approve.

Designer's Note. Built from the real HH3e digitized "Dark Emmissary" and "Dark Emissary In Terminator Armour" profiles (`Sons of Horus.json`) — the closest thing the Sons of Horus have to a Chaplain, a battle-preacher for the Legion's turn toward Chaos rather than the Emperor's Imperial Truth. The real data files the two loadouts as separate unit entries at different points costs (90pts power armour / 120pts Terminator armour, HH3e economy); combined here into one card with Terminator armour as a wargear option, matching how this project handles other single-character loadout choices (e.g. Lion El'Johnson's two weapon options) rather than duplicating the character across two cards. Priced at 85pts flat, covering both loadouts. Staff of Dark Authority is real and canonically named (real Critical Hit(6+), translated to Lethal Hits). Eyes of the Warmaster is a real, distinctively-worded rule — protects an attached unit's Leadership/Cool from penalties incurred specifically by not sharing his Faction Trait — translated as a flat "cannot be worsened" clause on the unit's Leadership while he leads it. The real Terminator-armour profile includes an optional Tartaros-pattern sub-variant (M7"/INV5+ instead of the Cataphractii-pattern default M6"/INV4+ used here) which was not built separately, for card-space reasons — noted here rather than silently dropped. 11e codex update (18 Oct 2026): power armour T5 like the codex Intercessors and the Chaos

> Legionaries; Astartes bolt weapons S5 AP-1 (pistols [CLOSE-QUARTERS]) and codex-named weapons on the codex profile; points scaled with Intercessor Squad 80→85.
