

ANGRON

PRIMARCH OF THE XIITH LEGION, THE WORLD EATERS

LEGIONES ASTARTES • WORLD EATERS • TRAITOR

Angron never wanted to be a Primarch. The Butcher's Nails scream inside his skull whether he wills it or not, and every battle is a war against his own mind as much as the enemy before him.

Sire of the World Eaters [AURA]

Designer's Note. This is Angron in his 30K, pre-ascension Primarch form — mortal, armoured, driven half-mad by the Butcher's Nails, distinct from the Daemon Primarch he becomes after the Heresy. Weapon and stat line preserve the prior 10e-era homebrew profile (Gorefather & Gorechild dual strike/sweep melee, Spite Furnace combi-weapon, Lord of the Red Sands pick-two Command-phase ability). Balance check, 2026-08-31: the right anchor for a mortal, non-daemon 30K Primarch is a mortal, non-daemon current-codex Primarch — not the current (Daemon-ascended) Angron datasheet, and not a Chaos-codex character like Khârn, both of which carry Blessings of Khorne / daemon-adjacent bonuses that don't belong on a clean Legion-era profile. Used Roboute Guilliman (355pts, M8"/T9/Sv2+/W10/LD5+/OC4, 4+inv — a loyalist Primarch with no daemon corruption) as the primary anchor. His stat line matches this Angron profile almost exactly (T9/W10/OC4/M8"/4+inv all identical), which is a strong sign the pre-existing stat block was already well-calibrated to "mortal Primarch" tier. Priced at 350pts — just under Guilliman, since Guilliman's weapons (Hand of Dominion A7/S14/AP-4/D4/Lethal Hits; The Emperor's Sword A14/S8/AP-3/D2/Devastating Wounds) hit numerically harder than Gorefather & Gorechild's strike/sweep profiles.
