ABILITIES

Core

Lone Operative, Scouts 6", Stealth, Infiltrators.

Faction

For the Greater Good.

Tracker's Mark

At the start of the first battle round, after deployment, select one enemy unit. For the rest of the battle, Dahyak Grekh re-rolls Hit rolls and Wound rolls against that unit. If the marked unit is destroyed, at the start of your next Command phase select a new target.

Hunter of Pheromones

Each time an enemy unit ends a Normal, Advance, or Fall Back move within 12" of Dahyak Grekh, that unit cannot benefit from Stealth or the Cover rule against this model's ranged attacks until the start of your next turn. Dahyak smells the trail and reads the wind.

Survivor of the Precipice

Each time an attack is allocated to this model, on an unmodified Save roll of 5+ that attack is treated as having Damage 0 (Dahyak's reflexes and warp-touched luck slip the blow). Usable any number of times per battle.

Voidsteed (once per battle)

Once per battle, at the start of your Movement phase, if Dahyak Grekh is more than 9" from any enemy model, you can remove him from the battlefield and immediately set him up again anywhere on the battlefield that is more than 9" from any enemy model. This counts as having made a Normal move.

Designer's Note

Homebrew — 8th Ed source (Warhammer Quest: Blackstone Fortress, 2018). Dahyak Grekh is the Kroot Tracker who survived the Precipice and joined the rogue retinue investigating the Blackstone — the only canonical Kroot character of his archetype, and an unmistakable distinct miniature (chitin coat, long-barrel rifle, hunched silhouette). 10e Codex T'au dropped him entirely; this homebrew preserves him as a 65-pt Lone Op character optimized for the role he plays on the tabletop — long-range Precision shots, mark-and-track a priority target, mark-cover-stripping aura against any unit that moves near him, and a once-per-battle re-deployment ("Voidsteed") to model his pathfinder-of-the-warp identity. Pairs naturally with Kroot-led detachments and any Farsight Enclaves / Auxiliary-heavy list. Anchored on canonical Kroot Carnivore stats with character buffs (T4/Sv5+/W5 vs T4/Sv6+/W1).
