Pulse Submunitions Cannons fire micro-cluster projectiles that saturate target areas with a deadly storm of plasma pulses. Nova-charged shots increase rate of fire and energy yield.

ABILITIES

Core

Deep Strike, Firing Deck 2.

Faction

For the Greater Good.

Nova Reactor

In your Command phase, you can activate the Nova Reactor: this model suffers 1 mortal wound, then select one of the following effects until the start of your next Command phase:

- Nova Shield: Improve this model's invulnerable save to 4+.
- Nova-charge: Pulse submunitions cannons use the Nova profile this turn.
- Nova Pulse: Each enemy unit within 6" of this model takes D3 mortal wounds.

Stand Firm

Each time this model is selected to shoot, if it Remained Stationary this turn, its ranged weapons gain the [HEAVY] ability and add 1 to Hit rolls (effectively BS 3+).

Damaged: 1–5 Wounds Remaining

While this model has 1–5 wounds remaining, each time it makes an attack, subtract 1 from the Hit roll.

Designer's Note

Homebrew — 9th Ed Forge World source. The XV107 R'varna is a heavy variant of the XV104 Riptide, mounting twin pulse submunitions cannons in place of the Riptide's heavy weapon options. In 10e, the Riptide remains the canonical Battlesuit; this homebrew preserves the R'varna's role as a long-range, fortress-stance fire-support walker. Stats reflect the 9th Ed profile (T8 W8–15) updated to 10e scaling (T11 W16) — heavier than a Riptide (T10 W14) to match its dedicated artillery role. Nova Reactor mechanic preserved as the iconic risk/reward decision. 60" Pulse Submunitions Cannon range and Stand Firm bonus reward static gunline play.
