Tarentus served as right-hand to a long line of Ultramarines Captains. The Codex Astartes runs in his blood — tactical doctrine, devastator coordination, assault timing, all read off the battlefield as easily as a litany.

ABILITIES

Core

Leader.

Faction

Oath of Moment.

Leader

This model can be attached to one of the following units: Tactical Squad, Intercessor Squad, Sternguard Veterans, Hellblasters, Heavy Intercessor Squad.

Tactical Precision

Each time a model in this model's unit makes a ranged attack, you can re-roll one Wound roll of 1 per phase.

Combat Doctrines

At the start of your Command phase, choose one Combat Doctrine to be active for this model's unit until the start of your next Command phase. You cannot select the same Doctrine two turns in a row:

- Tactical: ranged weapons gain [SUSTAINED HITS 1].
- Devastator: Heavy weapons fired by models in the unit gain [LETHAL HITS] and the model can shoot Heavy weapons even after Advancing.
- Assault: the unit can re-roll Charge rolls and melee weapons gain +1 to Wound.

Designer's Note

Homebrew — 6th-7th Ed source. Lieutenant Tarentus was a minor Ultramarines Lieutenant character in 6th-7th Ed Codex: Space Marines / Ultramarines. Mechanically he was a generic Lieutenant with a Codex Astartes flavour. Dropped from 8th Ed onward; canonical 10e has only generic "Lieutenant" without his name. This homebrew restores the character with his three-doctrine identity: at the start of each Command phase he picks Tactical / Devastator / Assault for his squad, mirroring the historical Codex Astartes Combat Doctrines. The no-repeat-two-in-a-row restriction prevents permanent buff-stacking. Use a Primaris Lieutenant model with Ultramarines markings. 11e codex update (18 Oct 2026): power armour T5 like the codex Intercessors and the Chaos Legionaries; Astartes bolt weapons S5 AP-1 (pistols [CLOSE-QUARTERS]) and codex-named weapons on the codex profile; points scaled with Captain 80→90.
