ABILITIES

Faction

Oath of Moment.

Inseparable Pair

While both models in this unit are on the battlefield, this unit re-rolls Charge rolls, and re-rolls Wound rolls of 1 in the Fight phase.

Hounds of Redmaw

Each time a friendly Bran Redmaw unit makes an Advance, Charge, or Fall Back move, this unit (if within 9" of him at the start of that move) may immediately make a Normal move up to 6" that ends within 9" of Bran Redmaw — they refuse to leave his side. Cannot end within Engagement Range of an enemy.

Rage of the Bereaved

The first time one of the models in this unit is destroyed, the surviving model gains +1 Attack and its melee attacks gain [DEVASTATING WOUNDS] for the remainder of the battle. Additionally, the surviving model gains the Lone Operative ability for the rest of the battle.

Pack Hunters

This unit is eligible to declare a Charge in a turn in which it Advanced.

Designer's Note

Homebrew — 8th Ed (FW Space Wolves source). Svangir and Ulfgir are the two named Fenrisian Wolves that accompanied Wolf Lord Bran Redmaw in his Forge World Imperial Armour incarnation — massive, scarred dire-wolves bound to him by blood and saga. Mechanically: an elite 2-model Fenrisian Wolf pack (T5/Sv5+/W4 vs canonical Fenrisian Wolves at T4/Sv6+/W2) with a duo-loss escalation (Rage of the Bereaved) and a Bran-tether (Hounds of Redmaw) that keeps them tactically welded to their Wolf Lord. 75 pts for the pair sits between canonical Fenrisian Wolves (mob tier) and a Cyberwolf (lone elite tier). Pairs with the Bran Redmaw homebrew datacard. 11e codex update (18 Oct 2026): power armour T5 like the codex Intercessors and the Chaos Legionaries; Astartes bolt weapons S5 AP-1 (pistols [CLOSE-QUARTERS]) and codex-named weapons on the codex profile; points scaled with Intercessor Squad 80→85.
